THE INNS OF NORWAY.

Plain and Wholesome Without Any Frills and Furbelows.

At intervals of eight or ten miles along the public highway, usually in connection with the skyds stations, are inns, where the traceler will invariably find the com-forts if not the luxuries of life-plenty of food and shelter, bed, and board. There is no uphoistered furniture or velvet car-pets or eggshell china, but always neat lace curtains at every window, some-times in the windows of the stables. A hixurious American will have to deny himself much that he is accustomed to at home, and will encounter experiences and customs that are new and novel to him. But if he is reasonable in his require-ments and behaves himself like a gentleman he will always meet with a hospita-ble although a homely welcome. The Norwegian hotelkeepers measure our appetites by their own and give you so much to eat, particularly at the noon dinner, that you are stupid and sleepy all the rest of the day and sheeze in your carriage, when you ought to be admiring ne scenery. There is no style about the hotels and the service is poor. The household work is all done by the landlord and his wife and service is poor. The household work is all done by the landiord and his wife and daughters. There are no electric belis and if you want anything you usually have to hunt for it and help yourself. It is the custom of the country for the travelers to make themselves at home, and you are sometimes compelled to look after your own luggage or it is liable to be left. But you will recover it again after a time. The people are honest considerate and unselfish, but imprecentious in their doors, for none are needed. Burglars and thieves are absolutely unknown. The bedrooms are barren of ornaments and easy chairs that we are accustomed to at home. There are no curpets and no rugs or the floor. All the appurtenances are plain and substantial, without any effect at show and very little idea of convenience. The beds are good, but usually the only cover is a comfortable seven or eight Inches thick and as heavy and as unwieldy as a feather bed. You can't tuck it in at the bottom nor at the sides and it is always shiding off to the floor. It is too much covering for an ordinary sleeper, and when the nights are warm, tack it in at the bottom nor at the sides and it is aiways sliding off to the floor. It is too much covering for an ordinary sleeper, and when the nights are warm, as they often are, you are compelled to choose between a chill and suffocation. The pillows are another nuisance. There is usually a bolster of feathers about the size of a barrel and a little hit of a four by nine pillow an inch or two thick, with pretty trimmings upon it. The big pillow is too big and the little one is too small, and you solve the dilemma by rolling up your overcont into a ball and using that instead. There is plenty of fresh, heavy home-made linen, large square towels that have been woven under the same roof during the long winter days.

The breakfast is abundant and often terrifying. You are at first confronted with five or six different kinds of cheese, an equal variety of cold meats, tinned fish, smoked herring and salmon, cold boiled ham, three or four kinds of cold sausage, strips of dried reindeer meat and half dozen different jams and preserved fruits. You are expected to particle freely of that sort or protected and and particle freely of that sort or protected and and served fruits. You are expected to particle freely of that sort or protected.

and half dozen different jams and pre-served fruits. You are expected to par-take freely of that sort of provender and usually do so, until you learn by exper-rence that dried fish, boiled eggs, veal cutiets and other hot food will soon fol-low if you are patient. The coffee is us-ually good, and there is always an abun-dance of rich, thick cream. There is no warm bread, but five or six kinds of cold broad baked from wheat, rye, and out flour, besides the national "flatbroad," which no Norwegian table is ever with-out. The dinner is a formidable affair after the fashion of the ordinary European table d hote, with soup, fish roast, saind, preserves, and pudding, while for supper you get the same assortment of cheese, cold meats, fish, sausage, and preserves that you have had for breakfast, and two or three hot dishes. Fish is the staff of life and saimon the mainstay, it is served in some form at every meal, fried at breakfast and supper and boiled for dinner, with strips of celd smoked saimon of a deep rich color on the side at all meals. The lakes and rivers are well stocked with salmon trout, which are caught in nets and kept alive in tanks until they are needed. You enjoy them the first five or six meals, but after you have had them seventeen or eighteen times in succession they begin to lose their relish. Beer is, the ordinary beyonge. Everybody drinks it. Claret and Rhine wine can be had at the larger hotels, but never any whisky, brandy or other strong lignors. Local option prevails throughout Norway, and in the country districts the saie of spirituous lignors is forbidden.—Chicago Record-Herald. dinner is a formidable affair after
